MADRID Dec. 9—The Minister of War reports that a reserve recently called out numbers 46 000 men

THE VIRGINIUS!

WASHINGTON Dec 8—It is believed here to-night that all the remaining crew of the Virginius have been delivered to the officers in command of the Juniata the first ship of our fleet to reach Santiago de Cuba. An officer from that ship has arrived at Key West and is now on his way to this city The Secretary of the Navy has dispatches from him but declines to make known their purport The statement that they convey information of the delivery of the prisoners is credited by persons known to be daily acquainted with the details of the situation

A dispatch received at the Navy Department from Commanders Allen and Reed of the steamer Kansas dated Bermuda Island Nov 24th announces the arrival of that vessel there on the evening of Nov 23d She encountered a heavy sea and violent squalls when about 150 miles to the southward and eastward of Cape Hatteras and was forced to keep away before it He stopped at Bermuda to get coal and intended to leave on the evening of the 24th

A Herald special from Key West says a large store house for naval supplies will be commenced here immediately

Private advices say that the lives of Americans in Havana are in great danger A number of Spanish spies are here.

Sickles to Resign.

CHICAGO Dec 8—The Inter Ocean's Washington special says the New York Tribune will print to-morrow a dispatch from Madrid announcing the resignation of Minister Sickles The reason he assigns is, that he cannot endure humiliation any longer

CHICAGO, Dec. 9—A Tribune's Washington special says no official notification of Sickles resignation has yet been received at the State department but it is expected daily The difficulty between Fish and Sickles grew out of the officious zeal of the latter who has chosen it seems in recent complications to represent the President rather than the Secretary of State Before he had received any instructions and anticipating any action that the Government might be disposed to take Minister Sickles immediately upon receiving news of the executions at Santiago de Cuba, filed a protest with the Madrid Government. He had also since that time and up to the time when Fish first began to conduct negotiations with the Spanish Government without Sickles aid insisted on presenting to Castelar more imperious demands than instructions from the State Department permitted

Accounting for the Curvature in Sickles' Spine.

NEW YORK Dec 9—A Herald special from Paris says a cipher dispatch from Madrid dated 5th announces heavy fall on the Bourse consequent upon the dispiriting news in regard to Cuba and President Grant's declining to accept Gen Sickles resignation and approving his action in the case of the Virginius The resignation was based on the fact of the Washington Government negotiating directly with Spain and overlooking Sickles who claimed that the Government failed to protect him

The Spanish Government claims that it is not bound to surrender the Virginius until the 18th of December

A MEDAL FOR THE MAN WHO SAVED SECRETARY SEWARD'S LIFE —The Washington Star of a late date says

On Saturday last Mr George F Robinson who was instrumental in saving the life of Secretary Seward when attacked by the assassin Payne on the night of April 14th 1865 was presented with the medal awarded him by Congress in 1871 The medal, which was made at the Philadelphia Mint, is valued at $1000 On the obverse side of the medal Mr Seward is represented lying in bed with the curtains drawn Standing at the bedside is Payne with an uplifted dagger in one hand and with the other clutching the throat of Robinson On the reverse side of the medal is a bust of Robinson above his head is a wreath of flowers and on each side the [illegible] inscription For his heroic conduct on the 14th day of April 1865 in saving the life of Hon W H Seward then Secretary of State of the United States

THE SHENANDOAH VALLEY

[Cor Boston Advertiser]

Charlestown [illegible] This is the place where they hung John Brown and there's the jail Immediately all the heads were out of the open windows on the side indicated

"Poor John Brown," sighed aloud one of the ladies "I was always sorry for him"

"Don't say 'poor John Brown'" cried another "If ever a man deserved to be hung it was he"

"Well it took plenty of men to hang him whether he deserved it or not" spoke up another "They had soldiers enough in the town that day to hang seventy men! I was a young girl on my way to boarding school and when we reached here I thought surely there must be a general muster or some other grand celebration I remember well the shock to my youthful feelings when I heard that it was only on account of the hanging that they were assembled"

The friendliness and sociability of the passengers among themselves struck me as remarkable and pleasant Although strangers at the start yet before Winchester was reached all seemed friends and as place after place of historic note, each suggesting new thoughts and anecdotes was passed the conversation and interest became general This pleasure was owing in a great measure to the genial officer in charge of the train I don't know his name nor his country but a pattern to his profession was this model Virginian conductor He was always on hand when wanted and always ready with kindly smile and friendly voice to give any desired information The old grew confidential with him, and appealed to him for aid and sympathy and found him not wanting while the newly made bride seemed to know at once that he was her friend and did not raise her blushing face from her husband's shoulder

Speaking of brides—I never saw so many on one train A person could easily imagine that marriage had been prohibited in the Virginia valley for the last six months and that now all the lads and lasses were about to enter its blessed state It was strange too how easily you could tell them the grooms were not all laddies, however Two were on the shady side of fifty but their age was no disguise to the fact that the minister had been lately called to officiate The smart attire dyed hair and whiskers together with flattering attentions to the blooming companion quietly proclaimed the widower and his newly made wife In front of me sat an old lady with a dear, good face—and a delicious lunch—who seemed to take a great interest in the young couples

"You see those two in the front seat opposite" said she pointing and shaking her head good naturedly Looking at the seat thus indicated, I saw a young man and woman neither of whom seemed to be over twenty

"Well" said she, whispering mysteriously "they have just been—married on the bridge"

"Married on the bridge—what is that?"

"Why, don't you know? Down on the bridge at Harper's Ferry! When a young couple, down our way, don't care to wait for 'leave nor license' they just take a run down to the Ferry and get married on the bridge over in Maryland You haven't the least idea either, how many do it, It's quite the fashion They are not all runaway matches, though like that one There is the young lady back of us, in brown dress and blue bonnet—she was married there two days ago and her folks knew all about it You see she is the daughter of a Presbyterian elder in our place and if she was married at home she would have been obliged to ask to the wedding all the church and half the village, so the young folks just slipped off by themselves and were married down there. It's a good idea I reckon They've had a fit the bridal tour, down and back, and saved the cards and fuss"

It was a sad though pretty sight to see so many ruins of fine stone houses and barns their black walls now covered with gayly leaved Virginia creeper standing in the midst of what must have been fine estates in the time gone by, but to-day sadly neglected and deserted This Virginia, or Shenandoah valley as it is more commonly called, suffered greatly during the war It was the scene of Sheridan's raid when as the natives express it he "burned out the whole valley"

"Yes" said one of them "he came along just after our crops were in Wheat had turned out mighty fine that season but precious little good it did us or our men The Union officers would march into our houses call up the whole family, count us, weigh us out so much wheat and so many pounds of pork per head and then fire the barns burning up the rest before our eyes If the barn was so near as to endanger the house it was usually spared though sometimes our dwellings would burn in spite of everything I have stood in my doorway and seen fires in every direction Ah me! but it was hard!"

It does indeed seem hard as we look back to it now but it was a necessary measure then It was found impossible to capture Richmond while the Shenandoah valley the great grain house of the South was full to overflowing

"Why is it" I questioned "that so many of your fine lands are still neglected? Cannot the owners afford to cultivate them?"

"Certainly they can but they have had no desire to do so, in many cases as they could get a better interest for their money in Wall street Thus the money has been sent out of the State, and our agricultural interests have suffered It is to be hoped however that the recent panic has taught our farmers a lesson, and that hereafter they will prefer a fair per cent from the profits of their labors to a fancy interest that cannot be depended upon in the hour of need"

OFFICIAL POLITENESS

Politeness adorns the character of any man It costs nothing to practice it, and yet free as it is many persons refuse to possess it. It should be the pleasure of every one to treat with common courtesy those who have personal or business relations with them It should be exacted from our public officials as one of the duties of official life A rude official should be driven from office Insulting language to a well behaved stranger who has business with a public official should be good ground for declaring the office vacant It is a decided pleasure to do business with a polite official Successful or otherwise in what you desired you leave the office with a good opinion of the man But to enter the presence of some public officers is like entering the den of some wild animal you are on the guard continually and fear that the harsh words and gathering frowns may be followed by an official order to tear you to pieces You get out as soon as possible and nothing but necessity can induce you to return If you have collected an honest claim you have been made to feel that you have plundered the Treasury if you have protested against some official act or submitted objections you are in doubt whether you have performed the duty of an American citizen or encroached upon the rights of some mighty monarch

Public officials should understand that they are the servants of the people Every tax payer helps pay their salary and they have the right to demand polite treatment at all times Too many officers forget the appointing power They act as if they were in for life and owned everything under them and had the right to crack the whip over their subordinates and over the heads of all who come in contact with them The practice should be stopped if the people should demand courtesy from their servants and if they fail to receive it should drive the offenders from office and put men in who can practice the common civilities of life

A TERRIBLE JOKE—The Indian police [illegible] the great [illegible] which the South Bend stand pipe has been [illegible] perpetrate the following A [illegible] lady of South Bend gazed with her [illegible] at the new dam [illegible] the river while her offspring which happened to be [illegible] her companion [illegible] the stand pipe of the waterwork [illegible] exclaimed Not to be outdone in enthusiasm he declared it was the [illegible]dest thing he ever saw"

JEFF DAVIS' DISGUISE

HIS ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE CAPTURE IN A WOMAN'S DRESS—STATEMENT OF GEN PRITCHARD

A correspondent of the Lyons (Wayne county N Y) Republican, who lately visited Allegan called upon General Benjamin D Pritchard now a resident of that town who was during the war Colonel of the Fourth Regiment of Michigan Cavalry and had the good fortune to capture Jeff Davis In conversation with him the correspondent inquired as to the circumstances of Davis attempted escape and gives the story thus

General Pritchard said After the escape of Davis from Richmond, I received reliable intelligence and which appeared to me to be all the more reliable from the situation and the necessities of his case—that is to say, that he would endeavor to make his way across the Mississippi into Texas, where he intended to put himself at the head of his forces still quite strong and around which he could gather all his remaining strength in the Southwest, and then still to carry on the rebellion in those vast and comparatively inaccessible regions trusting to the continued recruiting of his forces from escaping squads of his defeated armies in all quarters and from Mexican sympathizers guerrillas and dissatisfied, reckless desperate and lawless spirits from every direction, and not altogether without hope of aid from foreigners To reach there he had but one hope of escape he had to make his way from Virginia to Georgia, and thence westward along a belt of country that lay between our forces on the Gulf on the south and our forces that occupied Virginia, Tennessee and westward, on the north So I governed myself accordingly and set my command in motion, as if on the 'double quick,' right through that region.

We soon struck the trail of Davis on the Ocmulgee river in Georgia He was accompanied by some of his military staff and the chiefs of his government His wife and the wives and female companions of some of his subordinates were with him. Thus we followed until we reached a small village in Georgia where we lost all track of them We surrounded the village I made the most particular and all manner of inquiries of the inhabitants, but not one of them knew a thing, and were properly astonished at my asking them the questions "as if they knew" Still I had no doubt but that they all knew well So I resorted to what never or seldom failed me I got an African alone, and he soon told me where the game was to be found—about two miles from the village, in a sort of wild bushy, woody place By this time it had grown well into the night, the weather being beautiful and the sky bright I soon had my command at the spot where we found a small encampment consisting of two or three tents with wagons standing about The tents as was afterward discovered were occupied by the women and Davis and one or two of his masculine favorites, the remainder of the party lying about under the wagons It was now about midnight or after I gave orders to have the encampment surrounded giving the most positive command that no living thing under any circumstances should pass outward through the lines This we waited for day

In the early dawn—almost before dawn—an old woman was seen making her way from out of one of the tents She was dressed in a waterproof cloak from her waist down the cloak coming down so low as to cover her feet Around her body was a shawl arranged and tied on her head something like a hood or bonnet that concealed her face in her hand a pail As the tent door was opened, a female voice from within spoke out in loud tones "Bring me a bucket of water—quick! We want to wash our faces" And then as if addressing any sentries that might be within hearing the voice said, in still louder tones "Let my old woman-servant pass and bring us a bucket of water—we want to get up and dress ourselves" So the old lady passed on, the one or two or more soldiers within hearing allowed her to make her way, but keeping a bright eye upon her Pretty soon as the old lady was going through a bushy place and by that means disarranging her waterproof, a soldier discovered her boots and something that looked like the step and stride of a man so he halted advanced before and stopped her Soon two or more soldiers came up and began to quiz her asking her to give an account of herself but she uttered not a word Then I came to the spot myself and put some other questions but not a word said the old lady in reply I then advanced, took off her hood untied her shawl and exposed her boots—she all the time making a stout resistance When I had succeeded in throwing off her disguise there she stood—a being that looked very much like an elderly man. "You are a likely old woman" said I. Not a word from the old lady "Who are you?" I asked, Not a word in reply "You may as well say who you are," I said "for you are my prisoner and all your company I will soon know who you are for you cannot escape I have a whole regiment of cavalry here, and others are coming You and all with you are prisoners and nothing can deliver you Now who are you?" At length the old lady found voice and said in a good angry loud masculine tone "Who do you think I am?" I took a careful look at her, and observing that one of her eyes had a peculiar defect and scanning her face closely and remembering the photographs that I had seen of Davis, and that I had heard that one of his eyes had a peculiar 'blaze' I said "I know you now—you are Jefferson Davis" This the 'old woman' pretended not to hear and made no direct reply but commenced railing out with all manner of [illegible] and explosions against Yankees and cowards who make war on helpless women. "Who are you?" the 'old lady' asked I replied "I am the Colonel of the Fourth Michigan Cavalry whose prisoner you are" "Just as I thought" was the reply "making war like a savage on a helpless old woman and ladies that are ladies Let me pass and get some water for the ladies in the tent that they may dress themselves" "You are Jefferson Davis" I said again He looked haggard and anxious, as if not knowing what to do or what he could do At last, standing up full before me he said "I am Jefferson Davis!" and then again commenced railing out against us I stopped him by saying "Jefferson Davis you and your company are my prisoners" In the meantime, a company of Wisconsin cavalry had approached and my men fearing that it was a division of the enemy come to the rescue and it being hardly light as yet commenced firing into each other And thus began a battle in which several were wounded and some slain on both sides before the unfortunate mistake was discovered But little time had elapsed however before a company of New York cavalry came up The soldiers of New York and Wisconsin were of course, chagrined that they had not been the first at the capture and while my men and those of Wisconsin shed a soldier's tear over the sad blunder that made them fire upon each other regrets were soon swallowed up in rejoicing over the capture of the Old Woman, the chief of perhaps the greatest and saddest of all rebellion

A UTE TRADITION—ORIGIN OF THE GRAND CAÑON—Of the vast collection of Indian myths and legend laboriously gathered by the intrepid one armed explorer Major Powell there are none more interesting than that which describes in the mythology of the Utes the origin of the Grand Cañon of the Colorado—a marvel worthy to rank with the Seven Wonders It tells how in the olden time the wife of the great war chief of the Utes died and the chief was inconsolable and called upon his god Tawotz to take pity on him and show him to his wife At length he [illegible] and [illegible] thing, his huge magic ball in his hand he rolled it before him on the ground and where it rolled it cut far down into the earth and opened the Grand cañon thousands of feet deep And through it the god led the heavy hearted chief of the Utes and showed him his wife in the happy hunting grounds and leading him back he poured a mighty river through the depths [illegible] along the trail that no one might be able to follow after them and the river has continued to run ever since—M S Severance in Old and New for December

THE PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

FIRST ANNIVERSARY OF THE GRANGERS OR PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY IN OREGON.

JUNCTION CITY Dec 4 1873

The snow storm that commenced falling gently on Tuesday night increased yesterday till the snow averaged a depth of four inches in the evening the indications were that the fall would be still greater to-day and thus interfere materially with the attendance at the anniversary meeting of the Grangers at this place To the gratification of the Grangers and their friends although the atmosphere was frosty and cold no additional snow fell all day, so that notwithstanding that the attendance was much diminished in consequence of the snow there were as many present as could reasonably be expected and quite enough to make the anniversary a complete success and to demonstrate the spirit of unity, earnestness, zeal and enthusiasm that animates the members of the Order.

This 4th of December is the sixth anniversary of the Grangers in the United States, and the first annual meeting of the order in Oregon There was as a matter of course, a good deal of anxiety felt for the success of the first annual commemoration in the State, but the leaders and the men and women composing the membership were equal to the occasion.

THE GRANGES REPRESENTED

The meeting was represented by six subordinate Granges The first was Grand Prairie the Master is Judge H N Hill the Secretary is Mr J C Jenning and has eighty members The second was Springfield the Master of this Grange is Mr John Kelly, the Secretary is Mr James Ebbert, and has forty members The third was Junction Grange, Mr F W Folsom is the Master and Mr J F Houston is the Secretary and has thirty-five members. The fourth is Union Grange of which Mr H Smith is Master, Mr Samuel Looney is Secretary, and has thirty members The fifth was Eugene Grange of which Mr Jesse Cox is Master Mr St John Skinner is Secretary and has twenty seven members The sixth was Siuslaw Grange, Mr D Cartwright is the Master Mr James Ames is Secretary

THE MEETING

At 1 o clock the members met in the hall of the Junction Grange, where they put on their regalia formed in procession and marched to the church headed by a band of music and a flag of the Grand Prairie Grange The flag had at the head of it the words, "The Patrons of Husbandry" Underneath were the axe plow and harrow—the emblems of industry On the left fringe the apple and grape trees laden with fruit, were conspicuous as was the bundle of ripe wheat on the right fringe—the symbols of the rewards of industry The well balanced scales, representing justice, was a prominent feature in the center, as was a full blown rose at the bottom of the flag—indicating that the farmer's home is to be ornamented and made attractive The flag was well designed beautifully executed and much admired. When the members were seated the band played an appropriate air Mr F W Folsom the Master of Junction Grange called the meeting to order in a few appropriate remarks The choir led by the Messrs Gilbert, and Miss Mary Test on the harmonium sang in good style "Weenty not the princely man" Judge H N Hill read the opening prayer The band played a second piece of music, all of which gave a bright and cheerful tone to the meeting.

THE ORATION

The leading event of the day was the oration by the Hon J H Smith, of Harrisburgh The President introduced Mr Smith in a few appropriate and complimentary remarks, Mr Smith's address was short, comprehensive, witty argumentative and telling, and was received with marked approbation by the meeting He spoke of the farmers, artisans and mechanics as the great producing classes; but heretofore as the worst rewarded for the labor, owing to the well organized "rings" combinations of capitalists middlemen and warehousemen He gave a condensed history of the rise and progress of the farmers clubs and conventions in this State during the past eighteen months, with the view of dealing with their grievances, the difficulties they had to contend with and the advantages gained He acknowledged that these clubs did not fully meet the wants of the farmers, that after carefully examining the organization of the Grangers he was fully satisfied that it was better adapted than any others to secure to the farmers of this State a redress of their grievances and to ensure to them the just rewards of their industry He referred to the rich and productive soil and beautiful climate of Oregon, to the splendid wheat and other products, and vast resources of the State all of which are calculated to make it one of the most desirable States of the Union for intelligent industrious and persevering farmers particularly so at this time when they are uniting and combining through the medium of clubs and and granges to secure their rights and protect their interests. Hitherto farmers have allowed others to think for them do business for them, and to set a price on their wheat and other products Now the farmers propose to think for themselves, do their own business, put the value on their own wheat, encourage legitimate competition between competing lines of transportation sending their wheat to Astoria or other points where large vessel can load at little expense and without loss of time for foreign ports. The speaker made an able defense of the farmers of the State as men who knew the soil and climate and how to adapt themselves to it so as to develop its resources, and were girding themselves for its accomplishment, now that they had confidence that their interests and rights would be protected Mr Smith closed his address with an eloquent peroration on the necessities advantages and triumphant working of the granges in the West California and this State that what has been accomplished is only a foretaste of the future advantages in store as the result of their individual and united action but that their work was not accomplished until every farmer in the State was enrolled in the ranks of the Patrons of Husbandry

The choir sang with great zest the Harvest song "Beautiful fields of grain" The band played a choice piece of music and Judge Hill closed the exercises with prayer

THE LUNCH

The members then formed in procession according to their granges, headed by the Grand Prairie Grange the first organized in the State, carrying their flag and preceded by the band and marched to the hall of the Junction City Hotel where the ladies had prepared an elegant lunch consisting of [illegible] roast and boiled fowl meats pies and other good things

THE SPEECHES

The members formed in procession again and marched to their hall where appropriate sentiments were proposed and responded to The Hon J H Smith proposed "The Patrons of Husbandry" and Mr C Marshall responded in a very appropriate manner At the request of the President Mr Smith made a short parting address The proceedings closed by the choir singing in good style "Work for the night is coming" The regalia of the members was deposited, and after many warm congratulations on the success of their first anniversary and cordial shaking of hands the members dispersed for shopping, and other business to meet again at seven o clock to participate in the merry dance

THE BALL AND SUPPER

The use of the main room of the public school was granted for the ball Upwards of eighty took part in the dance perhaps a more intelligent refined and well dressed meeting of the kind of farmers their wives sons and daughters has not assembled in the Willamette Valley for some time Mr J H Boone of the Railroad Hotel provided a supper that would do credit to any hotel in the State, and was thoroughly enjoyed by those who participated in the ball It is not saying too much when it is stated that Mr and Mrs Boony know how to keep a hotel The breakfasts and dinners that they prepare for passengers by the railroad bears ample testimony to the truth of this statement

BISHOP CUMMINS

THE REFORMED EPISCOPAL CHURCH

NEW YORK, December 2d

A number of Episcopalian clergymen and laymen, among the former Rev Mr Cheney of Chicago, met to-day in Association Hall, in response to a recent call of Bishop Cummins of Kentucky, and organized themselves into a so called Reformed Episcopal Church, with Dr. Cummins as Presiding Bishop

Among the prominent clergy organizing the Reformed Episcopal Church were Mason Gallagher and M B Smith of New Jersey, Dr Cheney of Illinois, Dr. Prug Nathan, Rev Dr Cheeny of Colorado B Ayrigg of New Jersey Presiding Bishop Cummins' declaration of principles was referred to a committee consisting of Bishop Cummins, C D Kellogg of New Jersey, Albert Crane of Chicago Rev M B Smith of New Jersey, and Rev A J Sabine of New York The committee reported a resolution to organize the organization as the Reformed Episcopal Church, with the Right Rev David Cummins Presiding Bishop, and declaring these principles First—Avows belief in the Scriptures and the Apostles' creed defines the institution of the sacraments of baptism and the Lord's Supper and the doctrines of grace as substantially set forth in the thirty ninth article of the regime Second—Adheres to the episcopacy, not as a divine right but as the ancient form of church policy Third—Adopts the prayer book recommended by the convention of 1785, reserving liberty to alter or change it [illegible] conducive to the education of the [illegible] provided the substance of the [illegible] kept [illegible] Fourth—Rejects [illegible] doctrines that the church [illegible] one order or form [illegible] that ministers and priests [illegible] sense that all believers [illegible] hood that the Lord's [illegible] which the body and blood of Christ are offered anew to the Father that the presence of Christ in the Lord's Supper is a presence in the elements of bread and wine, that regeneration is inseparably connected with baptism. After devotional exercises it was resolved that the future meeting of the General Conference be held on the second Wednesday in May

The following committee were appointed Standing Committee—Rev M B Smith B B Leacock Charles [illegible] Mason Gallagher, C Cummington [illegible] G M Tibbets, G A Sabine A J [illegible] G S Hubbard, C D Kellogg Finance Committee D Ayrigg Albert Crane J M Carter J L Morgan of New York was elected permanent Chairman The presiding Bishop and the Standing Committee were authorized to prepare regulations for the government of the church, and report at the next council amendments to the prayer book, and adopt both until that council meets Rules were adopted admitting ministers from other churches without letters or dismissal or re-ordination to be performed by one or more of the bishops, with laying on of the hands, and of the presbytery admitting communicants from other churches

A LEGEND OF THE UTES

HOW ARIZONA LOST HER FORESTS

A legend of the Utes, for which I am indebted to the perusal of Major Powell's MS notes, explains the cause of the absence of woods in Northern Arizona It is not long, and there is something so inexpressibly novel in its movement, as well as in the fact of our drawing a mythology and fresh imagery from the very heart of the continent, that I gave it as it is remembered It is called "The Origin of Fire" and tells how once upon a time a bright spark fell from the point of a reed upon the ground, and the nightingale picked it up in its beak and found it was fire And the mighty chief of the Utes made ready, and put on a fine cap, with long eagle feathers upon it and started for the people of the South And as he went he stationed nimble runners of his tribe all the way from the land of the Utes to the Fire People, at intervals of a mile And, journeying, he came after many days to the Fire People, dancing with songs and shouts about a great fire And he mingled with them, but they saw he was a stranger and looked askant at him But he advanced and sang and shouted with them, and suddenly stooping thrust the end of his eagle plumes in the fire and they blazed up mightily And the Fire People would have caught him, but he leaped over their heads and ran to the first man of his tribe and falling exhausted, handed him the blazing torch of plumes and told him to run And he ran and fell exhausted by the second man, handing him the plumes And so they ran, each man catching the fire plumes from the hand of the runner, until the last man brought it to the land of the Utes And they were so rejoiced they put the torch to the roots of a mighty tree on the edge of the forest, and shouted as it burned But a great wind sprang up and carried the fire into the forest, and it spread in every direction and all the woods were destroyed And the people of the Utes prayed long and loud to the god Tawotz and at length he sent a mighty rain, which quenched the fire But a turtle sat upon a spark of fire and kept it alive during the rain And this was the origin of fire The myths combined give a not uninteresting barbaric history of the origin of the Grand Canyon and river of the Colorado and of the absence of forests in this part of Arizona—[M S Severance in Old and New, for December]

Portland Dec 6 1873 d6d1m

The Daily Oregonian.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, DEC. 10, 1873.

THE LAST OUTRAGE.

The appointment of Hon. Rufus Mallory to supersede Hon. A. C. Gibbs as U. S. District Attorney for the District of Oregon is announced. Mr. Mallory is well known as a person fully competent for the discharge of the duties of the office so far as the qualifications of legal learning and ability are concerned; and yet the feeling in this city on account of the change is one of general and unqualified disgust and indignation. It has been a long time since we have heard so many and so strong expressions of opposition to any act of the Administration. The occasion of this removal and the circumstances under which it is made, are such as to stamp the act as nothing less than infamous. The telegraphic correspondence between Hon. A. C. Gibbs and Attorney General Williams, which we published yesterday morning, furnishes the explanation in very general terms. The particulars are, that at the recent Congressional election in this State, bribery was resorted to by the Custom House ring to an extent and with a boldness that was absolutely alarming. Men were hired to vote over and over again, and the money for this illegal voting was paid out as if the transaction had been one in which the parties might lawfully engage. By this corruption the Hipple ring managed to secure an apparent majority of the votes of this county, though they lost the State; but they also managed to get themselves into trouble. Their infamous traffic was brought to the attention of the courts, and some of the bribed repeaters made full disclosures of the whole matter. Fearing trouble from the Federal court, however safe they might feel in the hands of the State Judge of this District, the ring saw to it that a Grand Jury, suitable to the emergency, was selected to be in attendance at the term of the Federal Court next following the election; and the result was that though charges of bribery and illegal voting were proved positively and beyond all probability of controversy, indictments were not found, and the bribers triumphed for the time over the law and over law-abiding citizens. Mr. Gibbs, the District Attorney, ready and prompt always to do his duty as a public officer, and feeling the greatest assurance that he would have the full support of the Government in the prosecution of persons guilty of gross crimes against the law, against public morals and against the safety and welfare of the community, reported the facts to the Court, and moved that another Grand Jury be summoned. This motion the Court granted, and at the same time changed the rule under which the Marshal had the selecting of the jury, and substituting therefor the plan of having the jury drawn by lot from a previously prepared list,—the same practice that prevails in the State Courts, and the only one that affords any certainty of a fair jury. The calling of this new Grand Jury was the occasion of the dispatches to which reference has been made, and which were published yesterday.

Having reported the circumstances of the case to the Attorney General, as directed by the telegram of that officer, and receiving no further direction in the premises, Mr. Gibbs proceeded with his business. His conduct was approved by the better class of citizens, because the corruptions were notorious and most flagrant; and he has been officially and directly vindicated by the fact that, notwithstanding the ring of corruptionists have left no stone unturned to prevent indictments and have run off some of the most important witnesses, indictments have been found against some of the parties accused. Mr. Gibbs has to-day the hearty thanks of the entire community, excepting only the bribers' ring, for the manly course he has pursued. But when neither persuasion nor threat could swerve him from the line of his duty and give the criminals security from the consequences of their crimes, they appeal to the Administration to have him displaced. A man whose history is summed up in the few words, seducer, wife-beater, deserter of wife and children, embezzler of moneys collected for his clients, keeper of a mistress whom he passes off in society as his wife, bigamist for over seven years, and United States Senator under a false name, is the person by whom and in whose interest this appeal is taken. This man is John Hipple alias J. H. Mitchell, Senator from Oregon. His application is heard, and a man who has long and faithfully served the public in various capacities, upon whose private and public life there rests no stain, is degraded from office not only while in the faithful discharge of his duties, but because he is discharging them faithfully.

There is a feature of this case that ought not to be passed over without mention. Attorney General Williams it is supposed has, practically, in his own hands the power of removal from, and appointment to, this office of District Attorney. It is true the President might "take the bit in his mouth" and exercise this power contrary to the wishes of the Attorney General, who is the chief officer of the department of justice, but it is not likely that he has done so. If he would do so in any case, he would hardly do so in this, as the matter relates to Oregon, the home of the Attorney General. Now Attorney General Williams is nominated for Chief Justice of the United States, but his nomination has not been confirmed. Can it be possible that for the influence and vote of the Oregon Senator, who carries a reputation beside which the worst name that ever disgraced Congress, is as stainless as Diana's robes, the Attorney General has made himself a party to this last infamy? We have admired Attorney General Williams and have rejoiced at every step of his promotion through which he reached the high position he now occupies; and we were glad to see the announcement of his probable exaltation to the first place in the national judiciary. But we do not hesitate to say that, unless he can explain away his apparent complicity in this most nefarious transaction of the long series of outrages perpetrated by the ring of corruptionists, he is an unfit and a dangerous man to hold the position of Chief Justice of the United States, and his confirmation by the Senate would be a positive calamity, and a menace to civil liberty throughout the country.

SOUTHERN OREGON.

This is the era of rapid transit. The rapidity with which communication is carried on between different sections situated at points remote from each other, is astonishing, even to the generation by and among whom the successive improvements have been made in the means of transportation.

We are led to make these remarks by the receipt of a letter from a correspondent at Phœnix, in Jackson county, dated and post-marked October 4th. This letter, intended for publication, has made the journey from Phœnix to Portland, a distance of nearly three hundred miles, in the astonishingly short period of sixty-six days, and lies before us looking no more travel-worn and tired than if it had come along at the most leisurely rate of speed imaginable. And, what is still more wonderful, the items of news contained in this communication reached Portland and were published even before the correspondence—arrived, so that much of it would now be considered stale matter if it were published over again. There are some things spoken of in it, however, which are of such a nature that they never get old, and which are too little noticed in the Oregon press. We refer to what the writer says of the Umpqua and Rogue River Valleys. He writes of these from actual observation, and says that though, not equal in extent to the great valley of the Wallamet, they are not less fertile, and are blest with a climate the most mild, and pleasant, adapted to the production of all the crops cultivated in the Wallamet Valley, besides Indian corn, melons, peaches and some other fruits and field crops which do not succeed well here.

We have personal knowledge of the truthfulness of our correspondent's glowing account of the beautiful valleys of Southern Oregon, and we quite agree with him that, while we of the Web-foot nation enjoy some commercial advantages which the inhabitants of those valleys do not possess, they also have advantages peculiar to themselves, and must in the future development of the State be regarded as among the most delightful spots on the Pacific coast.

The freshest specimens of fine writing come from that gorgeous clime of orange flowers and boards of election—Louisiana. A correspondent rises to remark that when the demands of the United States on Spain were made known, "everyone in New Orleans shouted 'en avant, mes braves! La victoire est toujours à nous!'" This sweeping observation is surpassed by the second specimen, which is a little moresombre. One editor says of another editor: "His slanderous soul is imbued with the electric fire of hell; his black heart emits the sulphurous flames till his whole nature is absorbed in one homogeneous mass of hellishness." As Bunsby says: "The bearings of this observation lies in the application on't.

Jo. Henderson has to leave Amoy. He was appointed Consul last spring, and it was late in the summer before he reached his post of duty. And now, just as he gets warm in his place, he receives notice to quit. Well, Joseph, we are sorry for you. But then your relatives have a way of telling plain, unpalatable truths which offend the ring, and you must pay for it with your head. Go up to Eugene and make it up with Odell, before your successor gets out of his bribery troubles, and you may be able yet to retain your consulate. But if you are going to try this expedient, lose no time, as an order may come from Washington any day to quash the indictments against your successor.

In his message to the California Legislature, Governor Booth discusses the question of capital punishment at considerable length. He favors the abolition of the death penalty, recites the number of executions that have taken place in the State during his term, and the number of suicides by accused criminals, and concludes, after a careful review of the whole subject, that the best interests of society would be subserved by the abolition of the death penalty. He would establish some separate and distinct method of punishment for convicted murderers and criminals of the worst class.

We suppose the Washington correspondent wanted to say that Speaker Blaine "felt himself so restricted by the desire to steer between the Scylla of back-pay upon one hand and avoid the Charybdis of the Credit Mobilier on the other." But there was a strike among the Pittsburg printers, and this unfortunate man was made to say: "Speaker Blaine felt himself restricted by the desire to steer between the scrpila of back-pay upon one hand and avoid the Cnarubdis of the Oredit Mobillitr upon the other."

Robert Toombs still lives, as the following extract from a report of one of his recent speeches in Georgia will show: "He thanked God for the work of his retributive justice in bringing first to the altar of sacrifice and loss many of the financial magnates of the land who sowed the wind for the purpose of 'cornering' the interests of others, but were now impaled upon the point of ruin by the pitiless blast of the whirlwind." Hark from the tombs!

The Chicago Times boasts the possession of a reporter who originated this remark concerning the crowd at a murder trial: "The vast crowd, of which two-thirds were standing in the aisles of the court-room and hanging by their eyebrows on the window ledges, involuntarily rose a couple of inches in their boots, and stood tiptoe with expectation."

The public debt statement for December, shows the total debt to be $2,217,679,755; interest, $8,333,725; coin balance, $83,760,989; currency balance, $1,296,440; special deposits held for redemption of certificates of deposit, $20,150,000; debt less cash in treasury, $2,150,862,053; increase during the month, $9,528,578.

A Washington dispatch says that the total estimates for the different departments for 1875 amount to $319,198,786. This sum exceeds the appropriations for 1874 by thirteen millions, the appropriations for that year amounting to $306,060,252. The cause of this is not stated.

THE VIRGINIUS PROTOCOL.

In the Sacramento Union of Dec. 3d, we find the protocol concluded between Secretary Fish and Admiral Polo, appended to President Grant's message:

Protocol of conference held at the Department of State, at Washington, on the 29th of November, 1873, between Hamilton Fish, Secretary of State, and Rear-Admiral Don Jose Polo de Bernabe, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of Spain: The undersigned, having met for the purpose of entering into a definite agreement respecting the case of the steamer Virginius, which, while under the flag of the United States, was, on the 31st of October last, captured on the high sea by the Spanish man-of-war Tornado, have reached the following conclusions: Spain on her part stipulates to restore forthwith the vessel referred to and the survivors of her passengers and crew, and on the 25th day of December next to salute the flag of the United States. If, however, before that date, Spain should prove, to the satisfaction of the Government of the United States, that the Virginius was not entitled to carry the flag of the United States, and was carrying it at the time of her capture without right and improperly, the salute will be simultaneously dispensed with, as, in such case, not being a necessary requirement. But the United States will expect, in such case, a disclaimer of intent of indignity to its flag by the act which was committed. Further, if, on or before the 25th of December, 1873, it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the United States that the Virginius did not rightfully carry the American flag, and was not entitled to American papers, the United States will institute inquiry and adopt legal proceedings against any of the persons who may appear to have been guilty of illegality in connection therewith, it being understood that Spain will proceed according to the second proposition made to General Sickles and communicated in his telegram to Admiral Polo on the 29th inst., to investigate the conduct of those authorities who have infringed Spanish laws and treaty obligations, and will arraign them before competent courts and inflict punishment on those who may have offended. All other reciprocal reclamations to be subject to consideration and arrangement between the two Governments, and in case of no agreement, to be subject of arbitration, if the constitutional assent of the Senate of the United States be given thereto. It is further stipulated that the time, manner and place for the surrender of the Virginius and the survivors of those who were on board of her at the time of her capture, and also the time, manner and place for the salute to the flag of the United States, if there should be occasion for such salute, shall be subject to agreement between the undersigned within the next two days.

OCCUPANTS, OWNERS AND AGENTS OF premises situated within the burnt district, are hereby notified that after Saturday, the 13th inst., the Ordinances relating to obstructions of streets and sidewalks, to cleaning the streets weekly, and to the use of the streets for building purposes, will be enforced as before the fire.

ROBERT A. HABERSHAM,
d10:3t Superintendent of Streets.

RULES OF PORTLAND MUSICAL UNION.

THE PORTLAND MUSICAL UNION MET AT the store of H. Sinsheimer, on December 7, 1873. On motion, E. J. Finck was nominated and elected President, and Mr. T. H. Parrott, Secretary.

The following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That this Society shall be known as the Portland Musical Union.

The following rules were adopted for the government of this Society:

1. Musicians who are members of this Union are prohibited from playing with or assisting at engagements with persons who are not members.
2. Prompters belonging to this Union, shall not call for parties taken by persons who are not members of the Union.
3. For any benefits or charitable purposes, members may volunteer their services.
4. In any case where persons hire music to attract attention, whereby they make their living, they shall not be included in this Society.
5. This Union shall meet once every three months, on the first days of January, March, July and October, for the transaction of business. An extra meeting may be called at any time by five members of different Bands, who shall be considered a quorum.
6. The Leader of each Band shall see that these rules be strictly enforced and receipts for all jobs shall be taken and placed on file.
7. Any member breaking these rules shall be suspended.

These rules shall take effect Jan. 1, 1874.

All musicians are cordially invited to join this Union.

The following prices for furnishing music were adopted:

For Brass Bands:

On Fourth of July	$15 00 per man
On twenty-second of February or seventh of March	7 50 "
Parades of common turnouts	5 00 "
Excursions and picnics	5 00 "
For string instruments, if required	7 50 "
Funerals	5 00 "
Serenades	4 00 "

For String Bands:

Parties, when held till 12 o'clock only	$5 00 per man
Parties held till 1 o'clock	6 00 "
Parties held till after 1 o'clock shall be called balls and charged	8 00 "
Piano furnished for	5 00

For leaders or others who write or furnish music, extra shall be charged, as members may agree.

E. J. FINCK, President.
T. H. PARROTT, Secretary. d10:6t

IN U. S. DISTRICT COURT FOR DISTRICT OF Oregon. District of Oregon, ss.—In the matter of Oliver Pickard, Bankrupt. The undersigned hereby gives notice of his appointment, on the 1st day of December, 1873, as assignee of Oliver Pickard, of Marion, Marion county, Oregon, who has been adjudged bankrupt on the petition of his creditors, in the above entitled Court.

$25,000 WANTED.

WE HAVE APPLICATIONS FOR FIFTEEN thousand dollars, for two or three years, at twelve per cent. interest, on productive real estate security—property is worth at least double the amount. The interest to be paid quarterly.

Also, $10,000 for one and two years, on good paying real estate security; the interest is the same as the above.

The party loaning the money is to be at no expense, and we will collect his interest for him free of charge.

We also have applications for smaller amounts and parties with loose coin will do well to see us.

Keep Them and Thou Shalt Make Money.

I.

Thou shalt have no other place to buy your Dry Goods, Shawls, Flannels and Yankee notions, except at B. HAMBURGER'S.

II.

Thou shalt not choose to thyself any other merchant. Thou shalt not bow to them, nor listen to their speeches, for B. HAMBURGER is a reliable dealer, capable of drawing his customers to the third and fourth generation.

III.

Thou shalt not seek in vain for cheap goods, for they can be found for cash at B. HAMBURGER'S.

IV.

Thou shalt bear in mind that upon six days of the week thou canst make all thy purchases of B. HAMBURGER, but on the seventh day he must rest from his weary labors.

V.

Thou shalt honor B. HAMBURGER by paying up, and long may be thy days to enjoy the fruits thereof. He pays the highest market price for all kinds of country produce.

VI.

Thou shalt not commit an outrage on the proprietor by purchasing goods, but go direct to B. HAMBURGER, corner First and Salmon streets where you can get all you want Cheap for Cash.

VII.

Thou shalt not adulterously wed strange goods into thy house, but always buy of B. HAMBURGER.

VIII.

Thou shalt not steal goods from his store, for goods are so cheap that it would be a sin. B. HAMBURGER pays the highest market price for Butter and Eggs.

IX.

Thou shalt not bear false witness, but acknowledge that thou can get better suited, and better goods, and cheaper goods at B. HAMBURGER'S than any other store in Portland.

CITY.

About Carrying Pictures.—Engaged lovers and lovers who are not engaged are generally in the habit of carrying about their person the picture of the "dear object among ten thousand and the one altogether lovely" Of course this habit is perfectly natural and we might add much more rational than the exchanging of rings jewelry presents etc To look upon a representation of the form and features of an object loved although inanimate cannot fail to kindle in the breast emotions of pleasure This, we are led to suppose, is the reason why the custom of exchanging photographs has become so universal Accidental loss or the destruction of photographs has not unfrequently led to breaking off a marriage engagement for nothing can more surely evoke feminine rage and jealousy than carelessness or a slight shown a picture Only a few days since we heard of an instance of irreconcilable estrangement between a young lady and gentleman both of whom reside in this vicinity simply because the young man lost the highly prized enamel card on which the sunrays had delicately traced the lovely lineaments of the maiden The photograph was unfortunately picked up by a third party who imagining he was performing an act of kindness sent the stray card to the damsel through the mail No amount of explanation could do away with the unintentional slight and the next time the lover called the maiden politely told him to "git" He protested He apologized he explained and he even used strong expletives but it was in vain The young lady's dignity was offended and the lower region knows no greater fury than a lovely woman scorned The young gentleman now swears that he will never carry another photograph in his vest pocket In speaking of this very subject the Danbury fellow gets off the following appropriate instance The Danbury girls are pursued by an extraordinary fate No sooner is one of them engaged than some grotesque occurrence breaks up the match The last instance was on Friday night, when a young man leaving his young lady's house fell down the front stoop, and severely cut himself with a tintype of his adored on which he struck in a sitting posture When he found out what hurt him he was so mad he could not speak and when she discovered where he carried her picture she was so enraged she did speak, and to some effect They then parted She shut herself up in her room and he went for a doctor to pick out the pieces Young gentlemen profit by the above sad example Never carry your sweetheart's picture in any of your pockets, and you will be tranquil

Who Can Tell?—A gentleman who arrived from Hillsboro last evening made the following observations When the train was some distance from the city and speeding toward its destination the track led over a level, clear stretch of country and a most lovely and enchanting view of the Cascade range was thus afforded the passengers Mount Hood stood boldly and clearly outlined against the cold and cloudless sky and far away to the north Mount St Helens reared its snowy form flooded with a golden halo The sun was just sinking behind the waves of the Pacific, and bathed with a softening radiance the summits of both these peaks Presently the sun had sank from view but its rays still caressingly lingered about the tops and sides of the two peaks as if loth to depart Out of mere curiosity the gentleman took out his watch to observe how long the sun would shine on the peaks after it had disappeared Fainter and fainter grew the red fiery hue that glowed on Mount St Helens the golden radiance gradually melting off into a blue purple One moment and the last ray had flown Turning instantly his attention to Mount Hood the gentleman observed the sun shining clearly on its summit He did not relax his vigilance until every ray had departed from that peak By actual count he gentleman ascertained that the sun shone just three minutes and thirty seconds longer on Mount Hood than St Helens From this circumstance of time it must be inferred that the former peak is the highest—but how much? Will any of our mathematical readers attempt a solution of this problem?

Dead—Coroner's Inquest—A few minutes after 12 o clock on Monday night, Pooler, the unfortunate fellow who fell from the wharf last Saturday afternoon died from the effects of injuries sustained He was not removed to the Poor House, and expired at the city jail where he was removed immediately after the accident The body was taken to the undertaker s and Coroner Dryer notified of Pooler's death Yesterday morning a jury was summoned and an inquest held It was ascertained during the examination that the name of the deceased was Chas Pooler He had been employed in burning coal at Oswego since sometime in September, until within a week or two ago He was known to be addicted to drunkenness and was observed partially intoxicated only a short time before the accident Capt Wiley testified that he was arrested about the first of last September for creating a disturbance and lodged in jail for three days He was a native of New York and has some relatives in Janesville Wisconsin The following is the verdict of the jury We the undersigned Coroner s jury, called to investigate the cause of the death of a man lying at the corner of Washington and Second streets dead do find the deceased went by the name of Charles Pooler and that he came to his death from injuries received by falling from the wharf of the Oregon Steamship Co on Saturday the 6th day of December 1873

Festival.—The fair and festival to be given by the ladies of the Baptist congregation occurs to-day The lower audience room of the church will be open to the public from 12 M to 3 P M, and again at 7 P. M The usual admission fee is charged in the evening, but no charge is made for admission during the day The central location of the church at the corner of Fourth and Alder streets, and very near the postoffice, will enable all who desire, to avail themselves of the excellent lunch which will be served from 12 to 2 P M. to-day The well known hospitality of those having supervision assures the fullest enjoyment of all, and is a sufficient guarantee of a large patronage on the present occasion both for the noonday lunch and the evening entertainment.

One More Unfortunate—Yesterday deputy sheriff Hyer of Jackson county arrived here having in custody an insane person named M Moran This unfortunate individual is aged about 50 years He has for many years been a resident of Jackson county having emigrated to the State in 1852 For some reason his mind has been deranged and he labors under the strange hallucination that he is President of the United States Only a few days since he desired the County Clerk of Jackson county to issue an edict for the extirpation of all the Catholics in the country He was committed to the Asylum yesterday

Gone South—This morning Prof J D White will start south for California He will give an elocutionary entertainment at Salem this evening Continuing on Mr White will give performances successively at Eugene City Roseburg and Jacksonville in this State and at the various interior towns along the route from the boundary line to San Francisco He expects to arrive at the latter place about Christmas From there he will pass down through Arizona New Mexico and Texas along the proposed line of the Southern Pacific Railway and from thence to his home in Kentucky

Passenger List—The steamer Oriflamme sailed from San Francisco yesterday morning for Portland She brings the following passengers Mrs J L Williams and child Wm Hinz Job Mason and two children George Ste[illegible] A H Gilliland and family William [illegible] wife and daughter [illegible] Lanning and family [illegible] I N C[illegible]ber F G Schwatka H [illegible] M Corn[illegible] Rev [illegible] Crowe Jacob S[illegible] H Storr J Kearns and wife H Fink [illegible] wife F W [illegible] J Fitzpatrick J [illegible] with and two children W N Hazen L M R[illegible]ond, N B Lanson

Madame Stevenson—We are pleased to learn that Madame I A Stevenson the accomplished pianist and brilliant vocalist has concluded to take up a permanent residence in Portland for the purpose of engaging in teaching music Madame Stevenson is reputed to be an experienced teacher and her services will no doubt be extensively sought after by persons desirous of receiving musical instructions

Musical Union—As will be observed by referring to the advertising columns the various musicians of the city have organized the Portland Musical Union The object of the organization is to effect uniformity in prices for services rendered at balls parties serenades, parades etc and also for mutual protection to the profession The objects sought to be attained are certainly commendable and we sincerely wish the Union all the success in the world

Mail Safely Through—The United States mail carrier left this city Friday to convey the letters and papers over the mountains to the Dalles We learn that he arrived safely at his destination yesterday morning at half past ten o clock At half past two o clock he left with return mail Although the trip through from Sandy is rough and dangerous the carrier made it without danger or detention

First Lecture—The first lecture of the course was delivered last evening at Masonic Hall by Rev Thomas Condon before his class The lecture consisted of a statement of the first and rudimentary principles of the science of geology, but it was replete with valuable information and listened to with undivided attention by the members of his large class

A MINISTER'S WOOING

THE VAGARIES OF AN ENGLISH COURTSHIP—WRITING LETTERS TO BREAK OFF AN ENGAGEMENT—A FICKLE PARSON

The London Daily News of November 5, gives the following account of an interesting breach of promise case—Farrier vs Palmer—tried in the Bail court, London, on November 4 before Mr Baron Pollock and a common jury. The defendant pleaded that he never agreed to marry; that a reasonable time had not elapsed; that the plaintiff was not willing and ready to marry him and that after the agreement and before the breach, the plaintiff exonerated him from it.

The plaintiff is a young lady about nineteen years of age, the daughter of an accountant in Chancery lane, and residing at Heathcote house, Mecklenburg square, and the defendant, who is twenty four years of age is a Baptist minister. The parties met in July 1872 at the house of a mutual friend, when the defendant, becoming enamored of the young lady, he on the 22d of July wrote a letter, stating that he should be much pleased if with her father's permission she would take a stroll with him. She did so, and the result was that he proposed for the young lady's hand, and he was accepted as her suitor and future husband. From that time they met frequently and corresponded together, but after a time the defendant had a call to a congregation at Sidmouth, in Devonshire, in September, 1872. When the engagement commenced the parties were to be married in December, 1872, but, in consequence of his going to Sidmouth, it was postponed until the March following. They corresponded in the most affectionate terms, but in September the defendant came to London, and instead of at once calling on the young lady, he was in town several days before he saw her, in the meantime visiting a theater, and amusing himself at the Christy minstrels. The plaintiff remonstrated with him for his indifference, and he having made certain excuse, appeased the feelings of the young lady, and returned to Sidmouth on good terms with her, and the same affectionate feeling toward him on her part. He came to town again in December, and they continued on the same agreeable terms, but after his return to Sidmouth the charge made against the defendant was that he commenced writing to the plaintiff in a strain with the deliberate intention of inducing her to break the engagement. A voluminous correspondence passed between them, from which the learned counsel for the plaintiff read copious extracts. The young lady was much annoyed at the contents of the letters, and at one time she had made up her mind to break off the match, an intention which she communicated to the defendant's sister, but receiving an affectionate letter from him, she changed her mind and asked the sister not to name it to her brother, but from an expression in one of his letters there could be no doubt she had done so. In one of his letters he says:

It is evening, and I am alone in my room. The fire and gas are burning brightly. The shutters are fast and the curtains are drawn, and having nothing important to do the spirit has moved me to write a letter to you. I suppose you are anxious to know what I am doing?

He goes on to say that, having received an invitation from one of the deacons, he went there and drank tea, and was much pleased with his visit. He said:

He has a daughter twenty five years of age, agreeable, ladylike and good, but she is nearly always ill. I took a walk on the beach, where I saw not only the sea, but the creme de la creme of Sidmouth society—beautiful girls, with noble features. Such charming creatures, with eyes shining like stars at midnight.

In another letter he said:

Yesterday evening, after drinking tea with a bright eyed dame, I went to prayer meeting.

Again, he wrote that he was going to take tea with a very important personage of the town, whose wife was the belle of the place.

Mr Serjeant Ballantine—A chapel bell [Laughter.]

Mr Cole—But he could not ring it because she was married. [Laughter.]

The learned counsel read another letter, in which the defendant said: "The widow is a charming creature, young, rich and good. She is very often in my study, but not in any bed room. She does much good in bringing people to church—in calling on the sick and giving to the poor." In another letter he spoke of Oxford street being a green field, and his admiration of the ladies' "pretty little feet."

Evidence was then given of the promise to marry, and the breach. After action was brought the defendant offered to marry the plaintiff.

Mr Serjeant Ballantine then addressed the jury for the defendant, and in a humorous speech ridiculed the correspondence that had passed between the parties. Although there were allusions to special prayer by the defendant for direction how to act, the letters did not contain any actual refusal to marry, or any attempted breach of the contract. There was not the slightest imputation against the young lady. This case ought not to have been brought into a court of justice. The defendant had formed no other ties. He still entertained the greatest affection for the young lady, and if it had not been for the parents and the lawyer, these two young people would have been married and living happily together.

The defendant was called, and stated that before he wrote his last letter the plaintiff had repeatedly expressed a wish that the engagement should be broken off, on the ground that she thought they were not suitable for each other. His allusion to ladies in his letters was a joke and in retaliation for her having teased him about young men she had met in society. He was now prepared to marry the plaintiff. His income was £100 per annum. The widow was his landlady, and she simply came into his study to ask him what he was going to have for dinner.

Mr Baron Pollock—And I suppose you said "chops and tomato sauce." [Laughter.] If so, Brother Ballantine, there is a strong decision against you.

Cross examined—In one of the plaintiff's letters she said the front of the house was being painted, and that the painters were always trying to look into the bed rooms early in the morning.

Mr Cole—And in your letter in reply you make use of this expression: "I had better turn painter; it is a jolly trade." [Laughter.]

Witness—I was once before engaged to a young lady conditionally. [Laughter.] The plaintiff frequently expressed a wish to have the engagement broken off. I once telegraphed to her that I would call and see her before I returned to Sidmouth, but did not. I probably went to the theater before seeing her, because I had a prior appointment. My remark about the widow was hyperbole. Nothing definite was said about the marriage, and I was not aware that any provision had been made by the plaintiff for its celebration.

The jury, after an hour's consultation, returned a verdict for the plaintiff—damages, £30.

The South Salem Sabbath School will have a Christmas tree.

Wheat in Liverpool by mail advices from San Francisco—Average California, 1[illegible]s 1d; 1[illegible]s 6d; club 12s 6d@14s.

The main features of our local money market remain the same from day to day. The local demand continues active but primary [illegible] with ready favor at the usual rates. The apparent ease in financial circles generally is of course occasionally interrupted by the complaint of traders who have speculated beyond their means and judgment and are suffering the consequences. As a rule however among leading merchants and business men we find that trade is in a very healthy condition considering the state of affairs elsewhere in the Union. While the supply of coin in general circulation is not as full as might be desirable to move the vast large quantities of surplus produce in the hands of warehousemen and producers the ordinary business of the community is conducted without any serious embarrassment being experienced from a lack of funds.

Latest advices by mail inform us that the Bank of England has again reduced its rate of interest from 9 to 8 per cent and the European money market generally is reported as presenting features of more encouraging nature. The rate in the open market in London on the 1st inst was ¾ per cent, and though the object of the advance made by the Bank of England a few weeks ago, namely the stoppage of the gold export to the United States wasn't fully attained the volume of such export was very materially lessened.

In the money centers at the East the market is working quite closely but smoothly. The demand has been increased by the advent of the packing season but the call is readily met by the banks at rates varying from 7@9 ₽ cent. The general tendency of finances is still one of quietude and is likely so to continue until some definite policy is determined upon by the law makers at Washington. Before the promulgation of such a policy we shall probably witness but few changes in the condition of the finances of the country. The news from New England is growing more and more cheering. Many works that had suspended have resumed operations and others that had reduced the number of employes are re-employing many of them. There is a better feeling in financial circles too. The crash began in the East and there we presume the reaction will first make its appearance.

Eastern Markets.

Our dates by mail from New York are up to Nov 30th and the general condition of the markets up to that time is indicated in the following, culled from our exchanges:

The tonnage on berth and arrived for the trade via Cape Horn is smaller than usual at this season, amounting to only six vessels registering in the aggregate 5 300 tons. Ships for this trade especially of the larger class continue very scarce, and in view of the high rates of freights in other directions, especially to Europe with grain and petroleum owners are not at all anxious to go to the Pacific except at figures considerably above the views of agents who state that this trade finds it difficult to advance as the inducements held out by the agents of the Pacific Mail steamers are such that there is very little difference in the rates by the two.

Overland freights quite active notwithstanding the lateness of the season and the movement is considerable including many goods for the holidays.

Prices for wheat have advanced 8@8c with a fair demand from shippers at the advance the rise in freight to some extent neutralizing the cost. The Cable's comfortable and rapidly cheapening rates for money at London is calculated to promote trade. As near as can be ascertained there is about 1 500 000 bushels of wheat and about 3 500 000 bushels of all kinds of grain embargoed on the Erie Canal which will probably have to come forward by rail. Flour has also been in active demand and prices have improved daily. The demand has been in good part for speculation and may be attributed to the panic causes, as in the wheat market. The advance has been fully 25@40c ₽ bbl. California flour is quiet at previous quotations.

There is a better feeling among dealers in wool with increased business. Holders are much firmer than they were a week ago, and in some cases an advance is asked. Manufacturers have been active in purchasing the past few days, and money has evidently been more easy throughout the country owing in all probability to the movement of goods in the market. Dealers express confidence that the worst is past at least for some time to come.

Hides are active and sales large. Full figures include 1 700 California private quoted at 23a23½c gold. Leather is in demand.

The hop market is still depressed under the influence of the late heavy arrivals from abroad and a further decline of 5c in genuine Bavarian has taken place. The lower grades of English are off two cents per pound from last [illegible] rates. American and other descriptions remain unchanged. There is a wide difference between cash and time prices more so than in former seasons.

California and Nevada borax is very quiet at 10c currency.

Quicksilver has declined to $1 20 in London but is firm here at $1 20 gold.

Provisions generally are much higher and fairly active. Mess pork is steady and firm. New packed lard is fully ½c higher. Cut Meats and bacon also realized higher prices.

Petroleum and naval stores realized some higher prices but have not been active.

In groceries and other outside markets prices are tending upward. Coffee is held 1½c higher than last week, and the prospects are that prices will go still higher. Sugars are quiet and the market tame. In teas there is a rather more cheerful feeling in nearly all grades but prices show no advance. There seems to be an impression that the next Congress will impose a duty of 2c per pound.

Miscellaneous.

We are informed that applications for the transportation of a sufficient amount of freight from points on the Wallamet river have already been made to the agents of the two lines of boats to keep them employed for three or four weeks after the river shall have got up to a navigable stage as far as Eugene City.

The manufacture of oleomargine or suet butter in San Francisco is assuming considerable proportions. The article is now manufactured at the rate of 6 000 pounds per day at a cost of 12½ cents per pound. The retail price is 35 cents.

The San Francisco Commercial Herald says: "The bottom appears to have dropped out of the market for Eastern Sugar cured Hams. The low prices ruling East for old stock (last season's cure) have been the occasion of free shipments to this coast for sale upon arrival at whatever it will bring. It is difficult to give quotations that are at all reliable when outside brands are advertised at retail in the public prints at 12½c. for canvas covered Sugar cured Hams."

Many farmers have got to that point of financial independence that they are now withholding their Wheat from market, unwilling sellers at present, and this course they have fully resolved upon until the rainy season shall have fully opened the river for the cheaper transportation by boat.

Two thousand men have found employment this season in the Columbia river fisheries.

The Sacramento Beet Sugar factory this year will make 8 000 barrels of sugar valued at over $200,000.

The Pittsburg Commercial of the 11th inst says: "General Sherman gives it as his opinion that the failures railway mercantile and speculative are of no real consequence and that they ought to go on till the conscienceless element is eliminated from banking and commerce. He thinks that if sufficient of these failures occur we shall have an easy money market in a few months. The General must have been reading the Commercial."

Oregon Flour is still quoted in the New York City papers at the top of the market and at 50 cents to $1 per bbl higher than all other brands.

Not very hopeful sign for the future says an English Metal Circular is the announcement that a large lot of Rails has been offered by an American firm for reshipment to England at a price delivered there of £[illegible] per ton under those then ruling.

The production of Spirits during the fiscal year ended June 30 1873 was in taxable gallons. Total production from materials other than fruit [illegible] gallons; the total production from fruit was [illegible] 311 600 gallons. Total [illegible] gallons.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

SAN FRANCISCO Dec 9—Flour—Extra $[illegible] bling lots.

Wheat—Choice $2 [illegible]; shippers offer $[illegible].

Barley—Feed $1 [illegible]; brewing $1 [illegible].

Oats—From $1 60 to 1 80.

Hay—$14 a [illegible].

Potatoes—Sweet $1 [illegible]; Petaluma [illegible]; other kinds 60c@$1 [illegible].

Onions—$1 50.

Shipping Intelligence.

The steamship Oriflamme left San Francisco for this port to day.

The Disco, Melancthon, Mattie Macleay, Prof. Airy and Powhattan are at their berths and will not be able to get out until the weather changes.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—Since our last review our home market has been disturbed by no unusual occurrence, the usual quiet generally prevailing, and shippers holding back as vessels fully [illegible] have failed to put in an appearance. The quotation furnished to-day are not changed, being firm at $[illegible] per cental. We notice a continued full receipt by rail and some by boat while the Powhattan and Disco are the only vessels loading to day.

FLOUR—The market seems to be quite firm at our cut rates and with an active home demand and a fair export business our State mills are generally running full time [illegible] standard brands at [illegible] for [illegible] country and outside brands being [illegible] bbl, shipping to suit.

OATS—We are informed [illegible] parties from the interior [illegible] that large quantities will probably be placed on the market [illegible]. At present receipts here are comparatively small [illegible].

BARLEY—There is very little demand [illegible] this [illegible] except for the supplying of local brewers [illegible] one hundred pounds [illegible].

FEED—The supply in this market is kept quite full [illegible] with some shipping and an active home demand prices are well sustained. We quote bran at $[illegible] to [illegible] jobbing lots; chopped feed $[illegible]; short [illegible].

HAY—The receipts of the past few days have been [illegible] fairly [illegible].

POTATOES—Receipts have fallen off since the cold weather [illegible] prices are rather firm with some inclination toward [illegible] for table [illegible] are ready at [illegible] 40c ₽ bushel while inferior lots are offered at 30@35c.

ONIONS—With light receipts [illegible] 2 cents ₽ pound. The shipments are light [illegible] is well supplied and San Francisco prices flat.

APPLES—Like many other articles of produce for which Oregon once found a ready market in San Francisco apples are now far in excess of the regular demand and under present rates of transportation shippers find but little encouragement. Our quotations are for loose lots from [illegible] ¾c ₽ lb [illegible] per pound while choice varieties neatly packed command 50@75c ₽ box.

BACON—The supply of side meats is well kept up though hardly as full as a fortnight ago now finding fair sale at 10½@11½c ₽ lb. The demand is quite active for Oregon-cured hams and shoulders which are much scarcer. Quotations are furnished at [illegible] 10c ₽ lb for [illegible] and for hams. We are not exporting at all but considerable imports arrive by each steamer from California a fact discreditable to the enterprise and economy of our people.

LARD—The market is not in full supply. Except of importations. The call for fresh Oregon lard has been quite steady at 10@11c ₽ lb in kegs and 12c in tins.

BUTTER—Advices from San Francisco indicate a very flat market for Oregon butter there and shippers express discouragement at the prospect. Our market is well supplied with common lots which can be readily bought for [illegible] in miscellaneous styles of packages. The best for family use however is not so plentiful and choice roll is in demand at 25@30c ₽ lb while print butter mostly supplied by well known dairies commands 30@35c.

CHEESE—The local trade is well supplied by four or five dairies in our State and importations from California. We quote jobbing prices at 16@17c ₽ lb dairy prices 15c.

DRIED FRUITS—The market is well stocked with seasonable dried fruits and owing to the fact that California is now in receipt of large shipments of dried apples from the East the demand for Oregon shipments is dull at 7@7½c ₽ lb. Our market is quotable at [illegible]. Dried plums are dull at 14c.

POULTRY—The receipts have slightly fallen off but prices remain as at last report. We quote best lots of chickens grown $[illegible] last spring's and mixed lots $2 [illegible] doz; turkeys [illegible] geese $[illegible].

EGGS—The receipts have again been very materially reduced since the beginning of the present cold spell and considerable inquiry is noted at 40 cents per dozen and we hear of offers of [illegible] advance on these figures.

BEEF CATTLE—A diminished number of arrivals is noted and prices are quite firm with considerable inquiry for choice lots of young cattle at [illegible] cents ₽ lb.

MUTTON SHEEP—The demand is not very active and butchers seem but little inclined to advance rates though few lots are offering. Quotations are furnished at $[illegible] ₽ head.

DRESSED HOGS—We note but little activity in the market, considering the fact of the approach of the packing season. Good lots however are taken at [illegible] cents ₽ lb.

HIDES—The advices from the East indicating a suspension of many large factories prices here for raw materials have shown more weakness though no positive decline has taken place; choice lots of dry still commanding 14c [illegible] cents ₽ lb; green salted 7 cents and green [illegible] cents.

WOOL—The only purchases made for a few days past were for supply of our State factories all of which are running on full time. Prices remain at 18 [illegible] ₽ lb according to quality and but little doing.

General Merchandise

Ordinance No. 1,410.

AN ORDINANCE DEFINING THE DUTIES powers and compensations of the officers constituting the Street Department.

The City of Portland does ordain as follows:—

SECTION 1. The Committee on Streets and Public Property, the Superintendent of Streets and the City Surveyor, shall constitute a Street Department.

SEC. 2. The Street Department shall have charge of all engineering and public surveying to be done within the limits of the city of Portland including the care of all public streets, alleys, roads, highways, parks, grounds, sewers and bridges and the surveying of all lines of lots, streets, alleys and sidewalks and other lines which may be surveyed by the authority of the Common Council and of all street improvements and repairs.

SEC. 3. All such engineering and surveying shall be done by or under the direction of the Superintendent of Streets, except the work directed to be done by the City Surveyor in section 3 of an act of the charter of the city of Portland entitled "An act to authorize the city of Portland to open, lay out and widen streets and to appropriate private property therefor."

SEC. 4. In addition to the duties above specified the Superintendent of Streets shall cause to be kept a record of all field notes of surveys, estimates of improvements or repairs and all work done in pursuance of the provisions of this ordinance or by authority of the Common Council.

SEC. 5. The Superintendent of Streets shall report monthly to the Common Council showing the condition of the work of the street department and such other matters as he may deem necessary.

SEC. 6. The Superintendent of Streets shall cause to be placed line monuments and bench marks not more than 840 feet apart or at the intersection of every third street.

SEC. 7. The Superintendent of Streets shall make complaint before the Police Judge of all violations of ordinances relating to public work and streets, and other public property.

SEC. 8. When necessary in the judgment of the Superintendent of Streets and the Common Council, the Superintendent of Streets may by the consent of the Common Council appoint a special deputy, whose term of office and compensation shall be fixed by the Common Council.

SEC. 9. The City Surveyor shall be allowed two rodmen or chain bearers to be selected by him.

SEC. 10. The compensation of the Superintendent of Streets shall be twenty one hundred dollars per annum; that of the City Surveyor eighteen hundred dollars per annum; of each rodman or chainbearer three dollars per day.

SEC. 11. The Superintendent of Streets shall be a competent and experienced civil engineer, and shall give bonds in the sum of twenty five hundred dollars for the faithful performance of his duties.

SEC. 12. All ordinances or parts of ordinances which conflict with the present are hereby repealed.

SEC. 13. This ordinance shall take effect on the first of July 1874.

Passed the Common Council November 19 1873.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES! NEW REMEDIES!

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established 1854 for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency etc. Skin Diseases of years standing, and Ulcerated Legs [illegible] cured.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal hospitals of Europe and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearny street corner Commercial, San Francisco where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female are there who are suffering a miserable existence from the effects of secret diseases, or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at the pallid, emaciated and disfigured face [illegible] broken-down constitutions disqualified for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands [illegible] till death closes the scene. Let parents guardians and friends attend to those who are suffering [illegible] from this horrible life-destroying disease [illegible] that they be cared for and cured before it is too late. [illegible] immediately to DR. GIBBON [illegible] who has made private diseases his especial study [illegible] and who is certain to cure the most inveterate [illegible] without mercury or any injurious [illegible]. It is important to those who are afflicted [illegible] and are interested in the welfare of [illegible] to be careful of the many pretended [illegible] in all cities publishing their skill in [illegible] in a few days imposing upon [illegible] by using the names of eminent physicians [illegible] of Europe and other places. Be therefore careful [illegible] to make inquiry or you may fall into the hands of [illegible] charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice or [illegible] is practiced by the youth of [illegible] to an almost unlimited extent producing with unerring certainty the following train of symptoms, [illegible] combatted by scientific [illegible], viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, [illegible] and frequent insanity. If relief is not obtained, apply immediately either in person or by letter and have a cure effected by his new and unfailing mode of treating this disease which [illegible] fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. [illegible] will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will satisfactorily prove to him that he will [illegible] this complaint by either of the San Francisco [illegible].

Married Men,

Or those who contemplate marriage who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies should not forget the sacred responsibility [illegible] upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DR. GIBBON is responsible [illegible] gives to his patients a written instrument [illegible] himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge.

Cured at Home.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter [illegible] stating symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity to any part of the country with full and plain directions for use, by enclosing Dollars and [illegible] in registered letter through the Post office or through Wells, Fargo & Co. A package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union. All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who with bogus sworn-to certificates gull the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors whose names are to be found in the list and in newspapers of San Francisco and other places were tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, [illegible] carriers, intelligence office keepers. The only way to avoid imposition is to apply to one who will cost you nothing and may save you [illegible] for as advertising physicians in [illegible] cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people with bogus titles, certificates, pretended [illegible] papers. Dr Gibbon will satisfy persons who call at his office of his ability to treat diseases [illegible] and promptly to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON 623 Kearny street, corner Commercial San Francisco. Post [illegible]

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1957 ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.

☞ Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the OREGONIAN.
